

Over the last five years –

Under California's implementation of the ACA and waiver-based initiatives we have seen:

- ✚ Historic declines in the uninsured
- ✚ Expanded and reformed benefits (i.e., Drug Medi-Cal ODS)
- ✚ Safety net delivery system transformation (i.e., PRIME, Whole Person Care)

All of this has occurred under a good economy

So, in the next five years --

- + What kind of safety net do we need going forward?
- + What should we be planning for?

So, in the next five years --

- + What should we be doing before another recession hits so the safety net performs for low-income populations?

So, in the next five years --

+ How do we build strength, resilience, and performance in the safety net?

So, in the next five years --

+ How do we best align care coordination in the safety net?

So, in the next five years --

+ What role of should Medi-Cal health plans play with safety net providers?